The festival mood in the camps is interpreted

- Unifying role

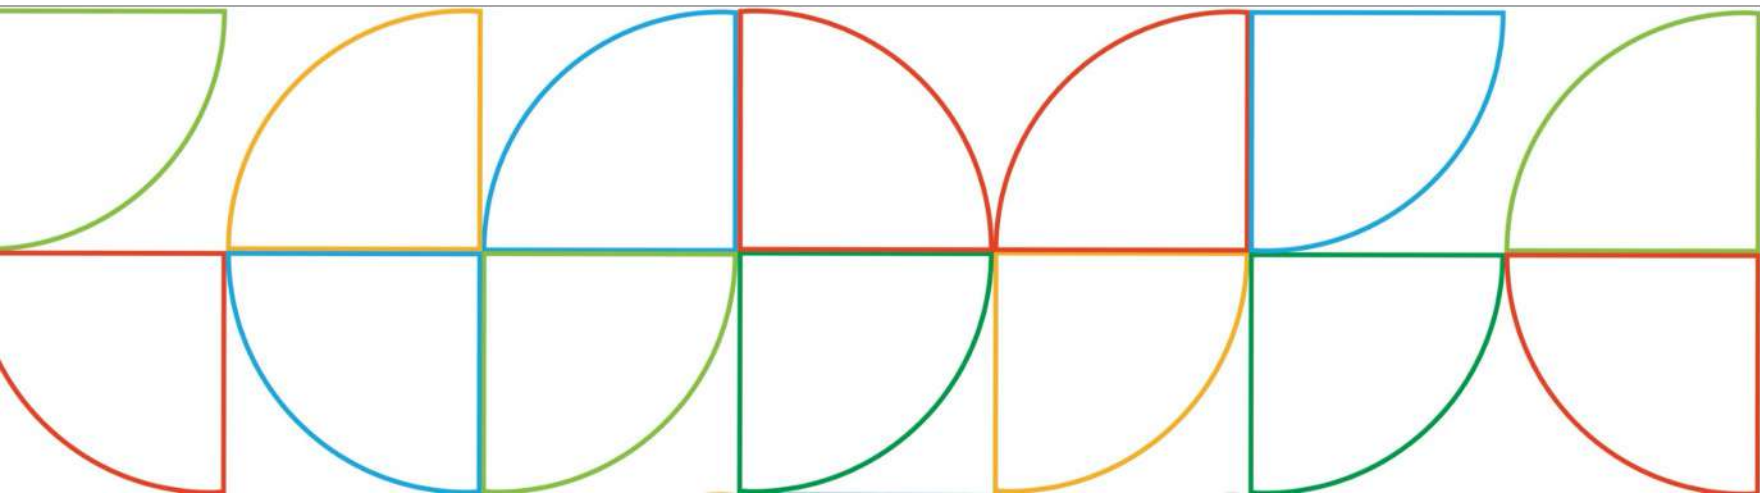

- Broadcasting best practices

The festival movement plays a very important unifying role in promoting traditional values. The practice of this summer has once again shown that folk art, the dialogue of generations are the basic resources for the education of children and youth, have a beneficial effect on the development of the spiritual culture of society.

Network partnership with schools, various creative associations/

Promotes the formation of a unified educational space that influences the value range of the modern generation of children and youth, broadly solving the tasks of education, preserving the connection of generations, developing general cultural erudition, forming a stable worldview aimed at creation/
